Tipperary Libraries

Tipperary Reads 2009:

John Banville

Following the success of the first Tipperary Reads in 2008 with Frank Delaney, Tipperary Libraries announce the author John Banville for Tipperary Reads 2009. We will be encouraging people all over the county to read two of his novels; The Sea (Man Booker Prize 2005) and Christine Falls (written under the pseudonym Benjamin Black).

John Banville will launch Tipperary Reads 2009 in Thurles Library on 11th July and will return to Clonmel Library on 14th November.

Tipperary Libraries need your help to cover the Reading Tree in your library with leaves

The Summer Reading Tree begins on 1st July, as always, in every library in Co Tipperary. Tipperary Libraries invite all children to call and collect their free Reading Tree Pack (from July 1st onwards) at your local library. Each leaf represents a book read over the summer holidays. Every child is invited to take part whether you read yourself or have stories read to you. Join in the fun and earn yourself a Reading Tree medal and certificate sponsored by O'Mahony's Booksellers.

Call to your local library for all details.

The launch of "whatsonintipp.ie", a new website created by the South Tipperary Cultural Providers Group under the auspices of the South Tipperary County Council, took place recently. Both parties have been collaborating on this project for the past twelve months. This exciting new resource will be of invaluable benefit to everyone in the region and further afield, especially tourists, as it will feature a comprehensive and accurate up to date listing of all the fascinating, appealing and vital cultural events taking place throughout the County. For current daily information, one need only click www.whatsonintipp.ie.

The website can be accessed via a variety of search avenues, ie events, genre and venue details.

Junction Festival 4th - 12th July

Cafés Carte Blanche

Junction Festival has devised 'Cafés Carte Blanche', a project that undertakes to fill five empty town centre premises. Five artists from differing art forms will be converting these shops into temporary artistic cafés.

The five cafés are: The Canine Café, The Writing Room, Hip Hop/Dance, Café Shrine and The Robinsons' Sunday Roadshow.

Faulty Towers Dining Experience

Ever wondered what it would be like to dine at Faulty Towers? Well now you can find out. Enter the snobbish world of manic Basil, his domineering wife Sybil and their hopeless language-challenged waiter, Manuel. This can best be described as organised chaos whilst, at the same time, enjoying a fabulous three course meal. Just don't mention the war!
